VOLUME 29 ISSUE 3      MARCH 2015

SAVED IN HOPE

As Christians we are often confused. We come to church and hear about a loving God who has saved us at the price of his only Son; who has rescued us from sin and death; who has delivered us from Satan's domain of darkness into the light of Christ. Then we go out and find the world and our lives much the same as before. Pain, sickness, strife, sin, loneliness, dissatisfaction, funerals, war, worry, and doubt still afflict us. What gives?

Martin Luther was very fond of Romans 8:24. Most translations do not translate this one little sentence as literally as they should (the NASB translation does it best). It reads: "For we are saved in hope." What does this mean?

Some context helps. In this passage Paul is speaking about how God's salvation does not exempt Christians from suffering in this life. We must suffer with Christ now to be glorified with him and receive the inheritance (8:17). This is not a matter of us earning our salvation because of our suffering—Jesus' suffering alone earned our salvation. Paul means that as we live out the gift of salvation we will continue to suffer until Jesus comes again or calls us home. We must await that day with patience (8:25), and patience literally means "to suffer."

Does this mean that God's promises are not true or that he ignores our prayers? Is all that good stuff in the Bible about being rescued from sin and death untrue? Are we not really saved? Is Jesus not the Great Healer? Is Christianity of no use? Not at all. This is where Romans 8:24 helps our understanding. For now, we are saved in hope. Sins still beset us. Pain still befalls us. We bury our dead in tears. But at the last, our salvation will be made visible and every disease of body will be healed, the dead in Christ will be raised to life, and the Father himself will wipe away all our tears.

Here's what Luther says about Romans 8:24: "When the Son of God reveals Himself to us in glory, our renewal will be in reality and perfect life, not in hope. Meanwhile, because we believe in Christ, we are saved and righteous in hope. We are not now saved in actuality but only in faith, as Paul says: 'You are saved in hope' [Rom. 8:24]. Thus our regeneration is only started. In the life to come we shall be perfectly regenerated when our body has died and put on immortality [1 Cor. 15:53]."

St. Paul put it this way (1 Cor. 15:19): "If we have hoped in Christ in this life only, we are of all men most to be pitied." If we expect that our salvation is primarily for having it good in this life, then we have missed the point. We must look and hope for our health, joy, and peace to be completed at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. We should not expect this life to even compare with life after the resurrection. Only when we realize this will we be able to receive with thanksgiving whatever gifts and relief God may give us in this life when and where he pleases as he works it all together for our eternal good.

We are saved in hope, and what a hope it is!

Peace to you,

HEALTHY HABITS: WAKE UP CALL

If you have had blood work drawn and your doctor says your blood sugar is a "little high", then this column is for you. A fasting blood sugar (drawn after not eating for 12 hours) of 100-125, taken on two separate occasions, indicates a prediabetes condition. A level less than 100 is normal and a level over 125 is full blown Type 2 Diabetes. 79 million Americans over the age of twenty are in this prediabetes range. Increased age is a factor so those over 65 are at highest risk.

This is a warning sign to tell you there is still a good chance you can turn it around. Your pancreas makes the hormone insulin, which is responsible for maintaining a healthy blood sugar. During prediabetes, insulin resistance occurs and your pancreas struggles to do its job. Here is how you can help:

1. Lose weight. Even losing 5-10% of body weight will reduce your chance of getting Type 2 Diabetes.
2. Exercise for 30 minutes a day on five days a week. Try cycling, swimming, or walking. Start out with 15 minutes and work your way up. If you have not been active, see your doctor before starting an exercise program.

3. Strive for a healthier diet. Avoid high glycemic foods (foods that quickly put sugar in your blood stream) such as refined foods, white bread, pasta, white rice, cake mixes, soft drinks, and alcoholic beverages. Include lots of whole grain foods, low fat foods, and vegetables. Drink water. Reduce serving sizes. Increase fiber foods.

Aim for small changes in your lifestyle that are easy to do. Making those changes now can prevent the many complications of diabetes, such as organ damage to kidneys and heart. Start now and see how much better you can feel!

God Bless, The Elders

The family of Pete Hollman would like to say a special thanks to our family at St. John Lutheran Church. Pastor Hayes had a special service that meant a lot to each of us. Thanks to Jolene for the music and to all the families that donated food for the lunch. The Ladies Aid did a great job of putting the lunch together. We are grateful for friends like you at this time of sorrow.
